Message

I am immensely glad to know that Odisha State Commission for Women is bringing out its Annual Report for the Financial Year 2019-20.

In our society women have never experienced absolute amount of freedom, equality and justice. Often they become victims of domestic violence, social harassment, sexual abuse and trafficking. To support poor and under privileged women by providing them with mental and legal counseling is the biggest challenge for any authority or organization. Our Government is committed to ensure safety, security and economic sustain ability of each and every women of our State.

The State Commission for Women is doing a commendable job by taking steps to provide justice to the women who are the victims of violence and discrimination. The Annual Report of the Commission will be an assimilation of case studies taken up by the Commission during last one year. I am confident, this document will be immensely helpful to break the cycle of social-injustice and protect the rights of women and girls across the State.

I extend my best wishes for the publication of the Annual Report.

Consultation on “The Nari Adalat” Or Women's Court-

Engendering Dispute Resolution

(Gender Justice for the Women, Of the Women and By the Women)

Date 31st July 2019

Venue: National Commission for Women, New Delhi- 110025

National Commission for Women organised one day consultation on “the NariAdalat” across the country as an Alternative Dispute Resolution Mechanism as it is already operational in the state of Gujarat. It is proposed to set up such “Nari Adalat” across the country in a phased manner. In this regard, NCW arranged for preliminary consultations with a few State Governments and respective State Commissions for Women of Odisha, Bihar, WestBengal, Jharkhand, Maharashtra, Haryana, Madhya Pradesh and Tamilnadu to gather inputs on various aspects of the proposed project and to work out the details.

The consultation was convened by Ms. Meenakshi Gupta, IAS, Member Secretary, National Commission for Women and requested the Chairperson of NCW to address the gatherings. Ms. Rekha Sharma, Hon'ble Chairperson, National Commission for Women welcomed all the representatives from all State Commissions for Women and State Government (8 Nos States). She briefed on the objective of the consultation.

To provide justice to women at less expense and time particularly in rural areas, to safeguard rights of and provide justice to marginalised women, to receive and settle cases of violence against women residing even in remotest areas,

to empower women to raise their voices against injustice, to create a social space for justice for women in a patriarchal society,

to propagate legal literacy at grassroot level, and to provide a forum to women in cases of sexual harassment at workplaces in rural areas as they are dominated by unorganised sector (small establishments, household based work) where Internal Committee is rarely constituted or accessible).

Then the Commissioner-cum-Secretary, Women and Child Development Department, Government of Gujarat elaborated in detail on Nari Adalat : Innovative Justice Mechanism from Gujarat in their state since four years(copy enclosed for reference).

After his PPT, the programme officer of National Commission for Women also gave presentation on Draft Guidelines by NCW (copy enclosed for reference).

In the Open House Discussion, every body asked different questions on formation of Nari Adalat, case counselling, case posting, sending notice/summons, funds allocation, selection procedure of committee members and connection with SCWs.

There was a clear discussion on Nari Adalat. The representatives of different states were informed to discuss with their own State Government and send their opinion within this month. This is a pilot project for 25 districts of eight states. The Government of India will support budget.

Also the Additional Secretary from the Ministry of W & CD Dept. informed the house that One Stop Centre will be functional by the end of August of every state positively. Ms. Rekha Sharma Chair Person emphasised on the formation of Nari Adalat and it would be functional positively.

With all the discussions, the consultation ended with a positive note that every state will accept this proposal for the betterment and protection of rights of women and justice at door step.
